CLEW TO GERMAN SUB WIRELESS BASE

Intercepted Mail Told of Purpose of Steamer Willehad in American Waters—Denial Made.

(By Associated Press.)
London, Oct. 26.—The following two letters intercepted on their way to Germany were made public here Tuesday. The first one from Max —, 461 East Eighth street, South Boston, addressed to his brother, said:

"Dear Gustav: The Willehad sailed today. I am to stay here till the end of the war. The Willehad will act within the American three-mile limit as a telegraph station for submarines. She has four months' provisions on board."

The second letter was from the captain of the Willehad, named Jachens, who wrote from New London to his sister in Germany, saying:

"I rejoice I am now here as captain of the Willehad. The Koln still lies at Boston. I am here with the Willehad on a special mission.

"Later you will hear more from me. I rejoice that I have done something for the fatherland and that I still have more to do."

The North German Lloyd steamship Willehad, which took refuge in Boston soon after the beginning of the war, was taken to New London on August 25th last under command of Captain Jachens, and was tied up at the pier of the Eastern Forwarding Company, the American agent for the German submarine merchantmen. The wireless on the Willehad, as well as on all other German and other belligerent vessels in American ports, was dismantled and sealed by customs officials.

The steamship Koln, also owned by the North German Lloyd, reached Boston from Bremen August 11, 1914, after eluding British cruisers in the Atlantic. The Koln is still tied up at Boston.

The Willehad at New London was taken to a prepared dock which the Eastern Forwarding Company had erected under rush orders after the arrival of the submersible Deutschland at Baltimore.

Knowledge of Letters Denied.
New London, Conn., Oct. 26.—Captain Jachens denied late Wednesday any knowledge of the letters intercepted by the British. Captain Jachens' only answer to all questions was, "I don't know anything about it."

"THE SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS"

Manager O. S. Johnson of the Colonial Theater Announces Engagement of the Famous Play.

Gaskill & MacVitty announce the return to the Colonial in the near future of Harold Bell Wright's dramatization of his very popular novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," presented by a great company with special scenery, mechanical and electrical effects for the production in its entirety. In making the dramatization Mr. Wright has collaborated with Elsbey W. Reynolds.

"The Shepherd of the Hills" is a story of humor and pathos told in a simple, direct manner of love, mystery and heroism, with its scenes all in the Ozark mountains in Southern Missouri, where the author lived and preached for some years. There are several exciting incidents, including the night ride of the splendid heroine over the hills through a storm, an attack upon the shepherd, and the moral victory of a man when a panther is about to spring upon his rival, but there is no melodramatic touch to the play.

PREPAREDNESS

Several months ago we began to prepare for the good times that are now with us. We experienced a demand for a better class of merchandise than we had been handling. We meant to cater to this demand. Our customers demanded the best. They must have, they would give us the first call and if we could not supply their wants they would go to the cities to buy. To stop this rush to the larger trading centers we announced our intentions to meet the demand with a MODERN HOUSE FURNISHING ESTABLISHMENT.

Those who have visited our store recently know how well we have "MADE GOOD" they only can appreciate the great store we have.

Furniture--

We show bedroom and parlor suits that are equal in every way. Complete bedroom suits of eight and ten pieces, the best makes in white or ivory enamel, mahogany and English brown, black and American walnut, cir-casian and oak finish—Also a nice showing of the cheaper finishes.

Stoves--

A complete line of one of the BEST MAKES of STOVES on the market; wood burning, coal burning and oil stoves, and the Renowned Caloric FIRELESS COOKER.

Iron Beds

We pride ourselves in the extensive showing of BRASS AND STEEL BEDS. We own the agency of the best line of Iron Beds made—The Smith-Davis Beds. We also show some of the cheapest.

Window Draperies--

We specialize on a large scale in window drapes and curtain-in goods. We have a special dust-proof room where a most beautiful line of draperies are shown.

Rugs--

A showing only equalled by the city stores—While other stores make a small showing of staple styles we show many handsome weaves, new and up-to-date both in coloring and weave. We are not only showing them but we are selling them.

Library Suits--

Surprising what a choice collection of LIBRARY FURNITURE we show. Choice things in wicker, beautiful patterns in upholstered suites, lovely odd pieces—So attractive is this showing you can't afford to miss it.

Music Department--

This department is a store in itself. A large showing of classy pianos. Surprising to those who do not visit the store frequently. The home of the great EDISON DIAMOND DISC PHONOGRAPH and the popular VICTROLA.

We have other departments which will prove attractive to those interested in purchasing any of the following: BUGGIES, BICYCLES, SADDLES, HARNESS, SEWING MACHINES, GAS ENGINES OR AUTOMOBILE SUPPLIES.

We want you to come and see us—We want you to become a customer, to have an account on our books, and to share in the activities of this big store.

We are liberal in our dealings, right as to price, considerate of the customers. Cash or Credit, we want your business.

EXTRAVAGANCE IN USE OF BUTTER

Average Dinner Contains More Fat Than Can Be Readily Absorbed By the System.

Perhaps the housewife who lavishes butter unnecessarily in frying is not so frequently met with as the one who squanders it in cake, hot breads and pie, where it does not always come to its own recognition. What immense quantities of butter some recipes call for! A little experimenting, with judgment and practice, will often demonstrate how you may slightly lessen the amount of some expensive ingredient or substitute other shortening for part or even all of the expensive butter.

Butter in Cake Making.

Of course, this does not mean cutting the butter item right in two, nor does it mean putting lard or drippings in its place when making a delicate cake. This is certainly not a safe way to go about it. But why not, each time you prepare a dish, reduce the amount just a trifle, so you will know how to make the next trial? In this way you will avoid the discouragement and expense of utter failure and yet be working out the problem and adapting the recipe to your own individual needs, tastes and purse. Then, once you have the recipe just as you like it, adhere to it strictly and always measure accurately.

German coffee cake, that much prized and nourishing confection that is set with yeast, is one of the recipes that may be prepared entirely from drippings and no one will ever be able to detect it, provided, of course, the dripping has been prepared from fresh suet and properly "tried out." Where this cake is made regularly in the semi-weekly baking, it may seem like a small matter to constantly substitute the beef fat for butter, but it has been demonstrated by actual experience that this saving alone amounts approximately to $13 yearly.

This is a sum worth considering by the provident housewife.

Omit Butter at Dinner.

With the many sighs heaved over the grocery and creamery bills, it is encouraging to know that the crusade against the use of butter with a hearty dinner is gaining many advocates. This is a point on which we Americans are more extravagant than possibly any other nation. Unfortunately, as the average dinner contains in itself more fat than can be readily absorbed by the system, an extra quantity tends to disturb as well as retard digestion.

This, however, does not mean to stint the family, especially the children, from plenty of good bread and a liberal allowance of butter, if the breakfast or luncheon consists of little heat-producing food; for nearly all books on practical dietetics advise fat added to the daily diet in the proportion of from one to two ounces, according to the nature of the person and his or her mode of living.

When fat is taken in the form of good butter it supplies not only the necessary force and tissue-building elements, but acts favorably in promoting the proper assimilation in other classes of food and diminishes to a great extent the wear and tear of the nervous system.

Just at first the family will probably protest against being deprived of butter with their dinner, but with juicy meat, gravy and vegetables, dressed with butter, to say nothing of the salad, accompanied by olive oil, it is quite unnecessary. At least, start out the younger members with the new habit and eventually you will find that they will thrive far better minus rather than plus the superfluous fat.
